Be a part of the first WELS National Conference on Lutheran Leadership

Is the National Conference on Lutheran Leadership for me?

This conference is open to all congregation members. What will be shared is designed for congregational leaders. However, it will also benefit and edify those who do not serve in any official leadership capacity yet care about the mission of the church. The conference is for paid church workers and volunteer lay members, for men and women, for those who are lifelong Lutherans and those who have recently joined.

What will I gain at this conference?

In the general sessions, the conference will focus on larger strategic issues that are relevant for all congregations. The breakout sessions are more tactical in nature. Some share “best practices” for various types of ministries. Others address challenges that are applicable only to some congregations.

WELS National Conference on Lutheran Leadership also will provide the opportunity to network with leaders from other congregations for encouragement, for the sharing of wisdom, and for Christian fellowship.

Visit lutheranleadership.com to see a full list of the keynote and breakout presentations and to find out more about those who will be presenting.

Register by Oct. 31 for the early registration rate of $249 per person.

WHAT CAN I DO?

Talk to others in your congregation who may want to join you. You and your congregation may benefit from having a group attend together, and a rebate is available for congregations that send three or more members to the conference.
